Programs Sponsored by Others at Stockton

A Time for Change: Civil Rights in South Jersey

The exhibit that profiles the historic roles played by our region in the struggle for African-American Civil Rights is on display in the Bjork Library (E-Wing on the Stockton main campus) through December 15. Previously exhibited at the Noyes Arts Garage, the exhibit was funded by the New Jersey Council for the Humanities and Stockton 2020 funds, with additional support from the Stockton schools of General Studies and Arts and Humanities.

On a related note, SCOSA helped to fund a recent culminating event at Dante Hall of the Atlantic City African American Oral Histories Project, spearheaded by Dr. Linda Nelson, emerita professor of Sociology and Anthropology, and Dr. Shawn Donaldson, associate professor of Sociology and Anthropology, with assistance from staff in the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences. SCOSA Director Burdick and assistant Mico Lucide attended the event.
