JIM WHELAN BOARDWALK HALL
ATLANTIC CITY

*“To laugh often and much;
To win the respect
of intelligent people
and the affection of children;
to earn the appreciation of honest critics and endure
the betrayal of false friends;
to appreciate beauty,
to find the best in others;
to leave the world a little better;
whether by a healthy child,
a garden patch or a redeemed social condition;
to know even one life has breathed easier because you have lived.
This is the meaning of success.”*

– Ralph Waldo Emerson

Greetings Stockton Graduates!

As I come to you for the last time as Stockton's President, I am filled with a sense of gratitude and nostalgia. I also can't help but think back on my own graduation year as an undergraduate student here at Stockton, anticipating the next steps and wondering what life would be like beyond our beautiful campus. One thing was certain then and is certain now. You are now equipped with the knowledge and skills that will prepare you for what lies ahead.

This year continued to be a remarkable time for our University, with the completion of Phase II of our Atlantic City Campus and the opening of the Multicultural Center, not to mention our national ranking as one of the Top 100 Public National Universities. None of those things would have been possible without all of you: students, staff, faculty, alumni, and our community partners.

As you prepare to graduate and embark on the next chapter of your lives, I want you to know that you carry the spirit of this institution with you. You have worked hard, studied diligently, and forged lasting relationships that will sustain you for years to come. You have contributed to Stockton's legacy, leaving your mark on its history.

I urge you to stay true to the values that have guided you during your time here. Be curious, be passionate, and be committed to making a positive difference in the world. Remember that you are not just individuals but members of a larger community and that your actions have the power to shape the world around you.

Although my tenure as President is coming to an end, I will always be proud of the work we have done together. As you receive your diplomas and move on to the next phase of your lives, I encourage you to come back often and share your stories and experiences with other Ospreys. Continue helping us grow this community in your new role as an alumni, and know that we will always be here to support you in return.

On behalf of the entire Stockton University family, I congratulate you on your achievements and wish you a bright and prosperous future. Go Ospreys!

Harvey Kesselman, Ed.D. '79
President

Dear Graduates,

On behalf of the faculty at Stockton University, congratulations to you for accomplishing a major milestone today! While it marks a celebratory end to one journey, it also ushers you into a new journey with far greater challenges and many opportunities lying ahead.

As you step out of the pines and into the world, we are extremely confident in seeing you as engaged and effective citizens who have deeply imbibed the value of critical thinking, appreciated the importance of global perspectives, and are committed to better community building in a multicultural, interdependent world, keeping humanity at the forefront. In Gandhian teachings, “be the change that you wish to see in the world.”

At Stockton, we find great joy in developing lifelong bonds with our students and cherish our friendships, but this is also a day for all of us to reflect upon and appreciate your individual struggles and those of your families. Along with the faculty and staff, your friends and family have invariably played a very important role in your journey. Today is also a day to celebrate all who contributed to your success and to reflect on your firm commitment and dedication to higher education and your bright future ahead.

As you transition from a university life to a professional life, you will find yourself amidst successes as well as challenges, but remember to treat them both with same acceptance, kindness, courage, and above all, humility. Your education at Stockton has particularly prepared you to be adaptive to change and use critical thinking and ethical reasoning that will constantly and consistently guide you to consider alternative viewpoints, balanced perspectives, and the potential consequences of your critical decision-making moments. As faculty, we take great pride in having seen you scale through the rigor of academic work and conflicting deadlines, now ready to enter a new environment and become the better version of yourself with every moment moving forward. Remember to see success as a distance between your lowest and highest moments. Where you came from – and how far you have reached – that will be your true success. No success worth noting or public adulation will come your way without a failure, or many failures, in your armory – but remember, giving up is never an option.

Today’s world is marked by the nuances of social justice and the disparities brought upon in a pandemic-struck world. You have managed to sail through the most challenging times in our recent history, and that makes your cohort distinct from many before you, and many that will come after you – you are the one with far greater responsibility. Today’s world is much different than yesterday’s, and inevitably tomorrow’s world will be very different than today’s. But amidst the ever-changing world, we shall remain proud of your abilities to play your part in making the world a better place and continue that pursuit, no matter how many times you face a roadblock. In Maya Angelou’s saying, courage allows us to fail, and to learn powerful lessons from the failure so that in the end, we shall not at fail at all.

As Angela Davis words reminds us, “You have to act as if it were possible to radically transform the world. And you have to do it all the time.”

The world is for you to win. We wish you luck and congratulations once again, all Stockton graduates.

STUDENT SPEAKERS

10 a.m. Divya Rajput

A Galloway Township native, Divya Rajput enrolled at Stockton University with hopes of making the most of the opportunities the institution had to offer. She quickly became involved with the Transition Activity Leaders Of New Students (TALONS), where she assisted with orienting new students to Stockton. She also became a Bonner Leader where she gained valuable experience in civic engagement and service. Divya is also involved with the Stockton Honors Program and has completed research at the institution including as a chemistry teaching assistant and on a biochemical research project focusing on fertility of duck eggs. Early in the pandemic, Divya created weekly webinars for elementary school students to teach them about human anatomy as an intern with the 4-H of Atlantic County and volunteered with Volunteers in Medicine, checking on patients and answering their questions.

Throughout her time at Stockton, Divya has made a constant effort to have an impact and to make those around her feel welcomed and accepted. A first-generation student, Divya has made it her goal to pursue a career as a physician. She spent this past year applying to and interviewing at medical schools throughout the country and was accepted to the Robert Wood Johnson School of Medicine at Rutgers University. She begins her journey to pursue a career as a primary care physician this July. She graduates today with a Bachelor of Science degree in Biochemistry and Molecular Biology with a minor in Disability Studies.

2:30 p.m. Dalia Moamed

Dalia Moamed is graduating with her Bachelor of Arts degree in Psychology with a concentration in Mental Health. Since she could remember, Dalia has always wanted to be in a profession where she could help others, especially those whose voices and stories are cast off by the status quo. She will be attending Fordham University this fall pursuing a Master of Science degree in Mental Health Counseling from their Graduate School of Education. Dalia plans to specialize in cultural competency and counsel marginalized communities that are in dire need of exceptional mental health services. While at Stockton, she participated as a project research assistant on the Clinical Diagnosis and Assessment with Asian Americans: Cultural Validity and Measurement Equivalence study, completed an internship with the National Alliance on Mental Illness (Atlantic/Cape May Chapter), was a student trustee of Atlantic City Pride, and served as an instructional assistant in the East Brunswick School District.

Dalia would like to acknowledge some core faculty and staff who mentored her throughout her educational journey, including Dr. Joseph Cirio, Dr. Ashlee Roberts, Dr. Shedia Laguer, Dr. Zornitsa Kalibatseva, and Dr. Helana Girgis. She would also like to congratulate her cherished QTPOCS executive board, especially those who began this journey with her: Shelly Luu, Mo Keane, and others. And finally, Dalia would like to thank her incredible parents, her younger brother, Alexander, and the rest of her amazing family for not only attending today's commencement, but for blessing her life with immense support and unconditional love.

Stockton University

Stockton University was founded in 1969 as Richard Stockton State College, a public four-year college within the New Jersey system of higher education. A residential institution with students drawn from across the state, Stockton is located at the edge of the New Jersey Pinelands, 12 miles northwest of Atlantic City and 50 miles southeast of Philadelphia. The largest campus in New Jersey, Stockton's award-winning buildings are set within 1,600+ acres of forest, streams, and lakes.

The University first offered instruction in 1971 and currently offers distinctive baccalaureate programs in liberal arts, professional studies, and general education as well as master's and doctoral degree programs designed to stimulate and challenge students intellectually. Stockton is strongly committed to preparing graduates for careers and advanced education, a commitment that encompasses helping students acquire interest in lifelong learning and in contributing to society.

Stockton's faculty members have gained a national reputation for their teaching, accessibility, and scholarship. In addition, faculty members actively mentor students, involving them in original research, hands-on learning, and community engagement. Through academic and co-curricular programming, faculty members guide undergraduate and graduate students to develop their independent and critical thinking skills both inside and outside the classroom.

Stockton University Foundation

The Stockton University Foundation, a non-profit organization founded to support innovative University programs, provides the means for individuals, organizations, and corporations to make gifts, grants, and bequests to the University. This private support enables the University to finance programs not typically funded through State appropriations.

Gifts donated to the Foundation support student scholarships, faculty and student research fellowships, improvements to equipment and facilities, and enrichment of student services and cultural programs. These offerings enhance the University's excellent record recruiting dedicated faculty, retaining students, and engaging friends.

The Chair of the Foundation's Board of Directors is Dr. Brigid Callahan Harrison '88. For further information on the Stockton University Foundation, contact Daniel Nugent, Vice President for University Advancement and Executive Director of the University Foundation, at Daniel.Nugent@stockton.edu.

Academic Honors

As part of a comprehensive educational effort to promote and recognize outstanding academic achievement, Stockton University grants baccalaureate degrees with the designations cum laude, magna cum laude, summa cum laude to qualified graduating students. Those graduates who have achieved academic honors wear a cord around the neck: a gold cord designates summa cum laude, a silver cord designates magna cum laude, and a white cord designates cum laude.

Honors

Students awarded the degree cum laude, magna cum laude, or summa cum laude achieve the following eligibility requirements in addition to those needed for a degree. All courses attempted at Stockton are included in the calculations for academic honors, except courses taken as Pass/No Credit. Students must satisfactorily complete at least 64 credits at Stockton prior to graduation in order to qualify for honor's designation.

Students graduate under the policies in effect at the time of their graduation rather than at the time of their initial matriculation. Currently, to receive summa cum laude designation, students must achieve a cumulative grade point average of 3.950-4.000; to receive magna cum laude designation, students must achieve a cumulative GPA of 3.850-3.949; and to receive cum laude designation, students must achieve a cumulative GPA of 3.750-3.849. The calculation of GPA is taken to three decimal places.

Academic Regalia

Academic garb dates back to medieval times, when heavy gowns, hoods, and caps were worn by students to protect them against the cold, dank, and drafty corridors of their universities. In the Middle Ages, Europeans wore clothing of distinctive colors to indicate their status or profession. It was only natural, therefore, that when monks and students began to don distinctive costume for bachelor's (apprentices), master's (teachers), and doctor's (teachers who completed postgraduate study) degrees, the most conspicuous distinctions appeared on the hood.

The academic gowns of the past have been replaced by gowns made of lighter fabric, as students no longer wear them to keep warm and since most commencement ceremonies today take place in the late spring and early summer. Typically, commencement gowns are black, although some institutions have adopted gowns in school colors.

The bachelor's gown, comparatively simple in design, usually has no adornment other than its characteristic long, pointed sleeves. The master's gown has oblong sleeves, which are open at the wrist. The doctor's gown differs from the bachelor's and master's gowns because it sports velvet panels down the front and around the neck and three velvet bands across round, open sleeves.

The bachelor's and master's caps are traditional mortarboard while some doctor's degree caps are a soft, large beret. The tassel, which is usually black for bachelor's and master's degrees, occasionally comes in a color representing the student's field of study and may be gold for doctors and presidents. Prior to conferral of a degree, the tassel falls to the right; upon conferral, students switch the tassel ceremoniously to the left.

The hood, as the most distinctive and symbolic piece of the academic costume, indicates the level of the degree, the field of study, and the institution conferring the degree. The length of the hood denotes the degree; bachelor's hoods are three feet, master's three and a half feet, and doctor's four feet long. There are also similar variations in the length of the velvet trimming. This trimming denotes the field of study for which the degree was awarded. The lining of the hood represents the color or colors of the institution conferring the degree. Some of the colors of the trimming are as follows:

Arts, Letters, Humanities, White	Occupational Therapy, Slate Blue

Mace

The origins of the ceremonial mace can be traced to the Middle Ages when knights wielded maces as weapons. As knighthood became obsolete, the mace became symbolic of power. It is now a traditional symbol of authority in churches, government, and universities.

Ned Gerber, Port Republic woodcarver who served on Stockton's founding committee, carved the mace carried by the Faculty Grand Marshal at Stockton graduation ceremonies. The three-foot shaft of the Stockton mace is crafted from walnut and holly, woods indigenous to southern New Jersey. The walnut is from a century-old tree hewn by Tom Lang, a retired member of the Stockton staff. Pewter, the metal employed in Stockton's mace, was a popular and practical metal in New Jersey during colonial times.

Stockton's mace is crowned with the flame of knowledge and carved in holly to denote mission. At the foot is a carved acorn, which indicates growth. Below the flame of knowledge is a triad of Stockton's former logo, a symbol of two trees, denoting environmental concern. Linked edge-to-edge and inlaid with holly, this symbol represents the three populations comprising the University community: students, faculty, and staff. The Great Seal of New Jersey, cast in pewter, signifies Stockton's aegis and sponsorship. A fluted section of walnut below the seal suggests the academic curriculum and the self-discipline necessary for each student to achieve a degree. Below that is a pewter cylinder engraved with the names of the first three Presidents of Stockton University. Finally, an engraved pewter nameplate identifies "Richard Stockton State College founded 1969."
