PROGRAM UPDATES

Counseling graduate student Van Nhi Ho organized Indigenous Culture Day on February 22, 2024

Van Nhi Ho, graduate student in the M.A. in Counseling Program and coordinator of LGBTQ+ initiatives for the Women's, Gender & Sexuality Center, organized Indigenous Culture Day on February 22, 2024. The event helped the Stockton community come together to celebrate and learn about Indigenous culture from invited guests River Webb and Claudia Haddad, members of the Nez Perce & Meskwaki and Mi'kmaw Northeastern Woodland tribes.

Click the images below taken by Susan Allen to read the entire story written by Loukaia Taylor about the event.

PROGRAM UPDATES

Works by Wendel White, Distinguished Professor of Art and faculty member in American Studies, now on display

A number of works by Wendel White, Distinguished Professor of Art and faculty member in American Studies, are currently on display across the US.

Click the images below for links to more information.

On display now until April 7, 2024 in the McCabe Library at Swarthmore College (Pennsylvania), Wendel White: Black Lives, Resistance, and Agency in America "features selected works from his ongoing series, 'Manifest,' which calls attention to artifacts he has photographed in historic collections throughout the United States, particularly objects related to the history of slavery, abolition, and social justice movements."

The First Unitarian Universalist Church of Houston (Texas) is hosting Wendel A. White: Difficult Histories from March 1 - April 21, 2024. The exhibit features work from his "Red Summer" and "Manifest" portfolios.

PROGRAM UPDATES

The Office of Military and Veteran Services invited women in service to campus for a photoshoot for Women's History Month

Melissa Ortiz, a graduate student in the Master of Public Health Program, participated in a photoshoot for Women's History Month featuring military affiliated women in the Stockton community.
