

Stockton's Manahawkin Site to Host Program on Ireland's Easter Rebellion with History Re-Enactor

For Immediate Release

Tuesday, March 1, 2016

Contact: Maryjane Briant
News and Media Relations Director
Galloway Township, NJ 08205
Maryjane.Briant@stockton.edu
(609) 652-4593
www.stockton.edu/media

Galloway, NJ - Stockton University's Manahawkin Instructional Site will host a program featuring a fictional re-enactment of events surrounding the Easter Rebellion in Ireland in 1916.

Richard O'Meara, an adjunct instructor of Holocaust and Genocide Studies at Stockton University, and a retired trial attorney and Army officer, will play John Patrick Joy, a journalist in Dublin. In this account, Joy meets with leaders of the Irish Movement for Independence as they secure the General Post Office and challenge the British Empire for their right to create an independent and free Irish state.

O'Meara brings to the study of history a unique dedication to the idea that the past is an exciting place which prepares students for the challenges of the future. Through the years, O'Meara has experienced war and peace in multiple locations including Vietnam, Panama and Iraq.

Lunch will be provided at this free public event on Monday, March 21 at noon at the instructional site, 712 E. Bay Ave., Manahawkin, N.J. Please RSVP by calling (609) 626-3883.

#