Galloway, NJ – Murphy Writing of Stockton University will host “Writing in the Pines” on Saturday, April 30 from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The spring writing retreat will be held in Campus Center Meeting Room 5 on the main Galloway campus. The program is currently accepting registrations from community members and Stockton students interested in writing poetry, memoir or fiction.

The $80 tuition includes lunch and six hours of professional development credit. Advance registration is required. For full registration information, visit Stockton.edu/murphywriting or call 609-626-3594.

Seminar leader Peter Murphy, an adjunct instructor at Stockton, will share the method he has developed over his 35 years of teaching writing.

Participants will discuss the craft issues facing professionals before writing to several prompts challenging writing for expression and discovery. Writers will then share their work in read-around sessions.
