Galloway, N.J. - Arts and crafts artisans, jewelry makers, food purveyors, non-profit organizations and other vendors are invited to participate in the University Weekend Street Fair at Stockton University on Saturday, Oct. 8 from 12-4 p.m.

"The Street Fair is an exciting, new addition to University Weekend open to the entire Stockton community, including students, parents/families, alumni and friends," said Lauren Wilson, assistant director of Student Development. Over 3,000 people are expected to attend.

The heart of this Street Fair are Stockton's student organizations, fraternities, sororities, sports teams, and offices who will be hosting free, interactive activities and showcasing the wonderful aspects of the Stockton community, Wilson said.

Vendor space is limited and will be available on a first-come, first-served basis. Fees are $50 for a food vendor and $30 for a table vendor. Food vendors cannot compete with on-campus food vendors located in the Campus Center Food Court and are subject to approval based on menu selection. All vendors are subject to approval based on university policy and procedures.

Registration and additional information can be found at stockton.edu/universityweekend or by e-mailing getinvolved@stockton.edu
