Galloway Township, NJ – The popular “First Wednesday” professional lecture series of the Stockton Center on Successful Aging (SCOSA) resumes for the new academic year on September 5.

The program, designed for health care professionals, is titled “Total Joint Replacement Update.” It addresses an increasing segment of the health care market for older adults. The program is presented by Dr. Robert Marsico, a SCOSA Research Fellow and Assistant Professor of Physical Therapy. It takes place from 7:30 a.m. to 9 a.m. at The Health Center at Galloway, 66 West Jim Leeds Road, Galloway.

The presentation will discuss contributing factors for the need for total joint replacement, various surgical approaches and the advances in post-surgical care and various post-surgical rehabilitation options after total joint replacement.

The seminars, designed for professionals, paraprofessionals, and other caregivers who work with older adults are free of charge and include a full breakfast. Upon completion, participants will receive the appropriate continuing education credits.

For more information on this free program, call 609-626-5569.
