Galloway, N.J. – The Stockton Center on Successful Aging is sponsoring a free workshop, “Medicaid Planning: Common Medicaid Mistakes and How to Avoid Them,” for older adults at Woodview Estates Assisted Living, 5030 Unami Blvd., Mays Landing, N.J. on Wednesday, Oct. 5, from 1- 3 p.m.

The presenter, Grayson H. Heberley, III, Esq., will discuss common myths regarding Medicaid and how to avoid mistakes when planning to apply to the program.

Heberley is a certified elder law attorney (CELA). After completing his undergraduate degree with Honors in Business Administration from LaSalle University in 1987, he went on to serve as an officer in the U.S. Navy from 1987 to 1992. He earned his law degree with honors from George Washington University, National Law Center in 1995. In 2007, he was awarded a certification in estate planning from Temple University and in 2009, he became a CELA.

This workshop is free and open to the public. Lunch will be served, compliments of Woodview Assisted Living.
